Considerations When Concluding an Investigation

Expert report - simple vs. extreme departures
Mitigating factors
Is there clear and convincing evidence of the violation?

Preponderance of Evidence (Civil)
Clear and Convincing (Administrative)
Beyond Reasonable Doubt (Criminal)

What Types of Violations/Allegations are there?

Types of Violations/Allegations

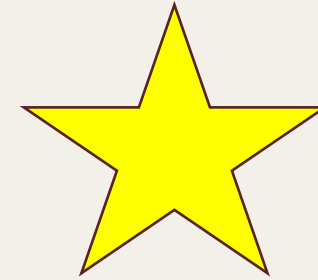

Gross negligence (an extreme departure from accepted standards of medical practice)

Incompetence (a physician is found to be lacking in knowledge and performing procedures that are beyond his or her training or expertise)

Repeated negligent acts ("simple" negligent acts that are not extreme departures from the accepted standards of practice are still considered a departure from the care - one act of simple negligence is not enough to take formal action)

Types of Violations/Allegations

Sexual misconduct or sexual exploitation of the patient/physician relationship

Over prescribing/violating drug statutes, furnishing drugs without an exam

Aiding and abetting (including the corporate practice of medicine)

Physician misconduct (including conviction of a crime, substance abuse, fraud)

What will your

be on Commencement day, when they call you Dr.?

No assignment today :)

- Next: November 25th lab, you'll have another Identity! You'll act as the OMBC
- Prior to our lab, each team will be given a case to review to prepare for the lab
- During the lab, each team will adjudicate their case and either present or add commentary to our Guests from OMBC
- OMBC will then reveal the outcome of the cases
- Afterwards, everyone will turn in a copy of their adjudication for their assignment
